For we publish the Prospectus of the Selma Observer, a Cumberland Presbyterian paper about to be started at Selma. The Editor, R. L. C. Hansen, is a gentleman of talent, and will make the Observer no paper. We hope for it a good fortune from this country.

Homicide.

An unfortunate difficulty occurred on Saturday evening last near Mrs. Curry's, six miles East of this place in which a soldier named Kelley belonging to Capt. Lewis' Squadron was shot and killed instantly. The shooting is said to have been done by Marcus McElroy, who claims to have acted in self defense. As the master will have to undergo a legal investigation we do not deem it proper to allude to the circumstances.

Factory Destroyed.

The Cotton and Wool Factory in this county belonging to Messrs. Richie & McMillan was destroyed by fire on Sunday night last. It is said to have been the work of an incendiary.

The country sustains a heavy loss as the machinery cannot be replaced.

See the advertisement of Mrs. Shuckford.

At the marriage of a couple at Mr. Crawford's, the bride appeared for the ceremony, in a full dress of real Confederates—that is, old time lacey wooley made with her own hands. The bridegroom wore a wool suit of gray, the product of the country. After the ceremony, the couple started for Richmond, hiding her blouses beneath a crite little straw hat, (the straw of which it was said was from the stalks of the farm) made by herself, and protected from the insatiable familiaries of Rude Boreas by the ample folds of a Confederate cloak, of the same material as her bridal dress and made by the same fair fingers.

The Prince of Wales is tolerably contented for the present, and is continuing the world. One million dollars of the compensation of his Cornwall estate has been paid for an estate in Norfolk; two millions and a half remain at a balance with his banker, and he has besides an income of $12,000 a year from his landed property, with $500,000 voted him by Parliament while his mother lives and $200,000 promised him by his brother. He is yet to find a suitable family, may manage to keep house very comfortably on this amount, and not deny himself if any of the usual comforts of a household.

WHAT ABOLITION HAS DONE FOR THE NORTH.—The Chicago Times is remarking about the "fruits of abolition" sum up what abolition's administration has done for the North thus.

The first abolition administration has supplied us many things of which we were never before possessed. It has given us thousands of widows and orphans, filled our streets with maimed and broken human beings; erected for our accommodation wretched military prisons; furnished us with a host of desperadoes, spies, informers, after the manner of Austria; has blessed us with an army of tax gatherers and hungry officials, who consume the substance of the people; entailed upon us a national debt to which of England will soon be a mere circumstance; has demonstrated that America can exalt the world in thievery and corruption, and has finally concluded to realize the beauties of military conquest. There are a few only of the favors for which we are indebted to this abolition administration. As an offset to the desirable gifts, it has

OBITUARY.

Buy a toy depart, hope after hope has had.

Friend after friend has passed away to slumber with the dead.

And yet another cup of pain.

Is left for my sad heart to drain.

Another flower has faded from earth another angel is winging in heaven, another noble heart has ceased its pulsations forever, and been hushed to rest in the silent quietude of the tomb, another family circle has been broken by the cruel hand of war, never to be united again.

Wm. T. Lester, 31st Ala., a noble youth has given his life to the cause of his country;

but he died the means of human suffering,

and entered into rest at Camp Tracy,

on the 17th day of October 1863, in his 21st year of life.

None knew him but to love him,

none named him but to praise.

As a classmate at school, an associate at home and a messmate in the army, there was the same exhibition of the gentle nature of the character of the young man.

He died Nov. 12, 1863.

Wm. R. Pickering, a constituent of mine,

Col. R. R. Pickering, of Marengo county, is making excellent cotton yarns, for the manufacture of big and heavy clothing for negroes,

without the use of card.

He spins the cotton slowly, as to throw large fibers through the fibers, which are caught in a hamper basket, placed under the fiber, and taken to the spinning wheel without passing the carding.

On the spinning wheel, the cotton is twisted into a coarse, coarse skeins,

about 100 yards long, and 100 yards

wide, and so to make the skeins

disappear, he burns the skeins,

and then spins the cotton again,

and so on, until the cotton is

entirely gone.

He then spins the cotton again,

and so on, until the cotton is

entirely gone.
